For James

At lunchtime one day,
with a thick slice of pie,

Steve and Col Yeti
watch the birds flying by.

Noel is not eating,
a tear in his eye,

He stretches his wings and looks at the sky.

Penguins are fast and can move with some flair,

But they are made for the water and not for the air.

Noel climbs up a snowdrift and jumps into space.

He flies for two seconds then lands on his face.

Digging out Noel and drying his tear,

Col says to Steve,
"I've got an idea!"

Back in the store
Col draws up a plan

Then sends out his brother for a ginormous fan.

With hammer and nails and a hand that is steady

Noel's flying machine is finally ready.

Steve does up the straps and checks that they're tight.

Col switches it on and prepares it for flight.

With a big shout of joy Noel takes to the air

And he swoops and he dives without any care.

At lunchtime one day,
with a thick slice of pie,

Steve and Col Yeti
watch Noel flying by.

The End
